Emami Wins Greentech Safety Award

Express News Service

Balasore: In keeping with its tradition of excellence in safety, Emami Paper Mills Limited here has won the prestigious Greentech Safety Award for its excellent performance in maintaining health, safety and environment standards.

Director (operations) of the company MBS Nair received the 12th Annual Greentech Safety Award 2013 from President of Greentech Foundation Kamleshwar Sharan and former principal secretary of Department of Labour, Government of Punjab, RC Nayyer at a glittering function in Goa recently. The Award is presented every year by the Genentech Foundation to recognise excellence in fire and safety management. Emami Paper Mills, billed as India's leading manufacturer of newsprint, has made it against other big corporate leaders in the market.

The company was chosen for the award for its innovative fire and safety management, demonstration of highest level of commitment and best practices in reduction of incidents and accidents.

Nair said Emami has a tradition of strictly following all the stipulations laid down for ensuring maximum safety.

"The award reflects the efforts put by the employees and workers of the plant in maintaining accident-free atmosphere along with the environment standards. It would definitely boost the morale of the workers," he added.
