Two plants of Emami Limited – one at Vapi and another at Masat in Gujarat – which produce healthcare products under the Zandu brand have been accredited with WHO-GMP and Certificate of Pharmaceutical Products (CoPP).

The accreditation has been granted for more than 40 Ayurvedic products with a validity for three years, Emami said in a release.

Emami had previously received a WHO-GMP with CoPP in 2017 for 11 products under the Zandu brand.

“Besides authenticating the quality of our Zandu brand of Ayurvedic products, this certification also provides Emami a unique competitive edge for exporting them and realizing the potential of the global awareness of AYUSH to take its traditional natural goodness to a wider world-wide consumer base,” Harsha V Agarwal, Director, Emami Ltd said.
